

Around Rico August, 2006

By the Bugle's roving reporter, Der Floss Spode. (Sorry for living. I promise I won't do it again.)

Looks like a new house moving in down on West Mantz., where it apparently will occupy the space formerly used by the Scale House:

We who live in Rico sometimes forget what a magnificent part of America we are privileged to inhabit. This month, my dog Spot and I take you on a brief tour of the town, showing how some of your friends and neighbors add to this beauty.

It is all about landscaping – and flowers. You'll have to guess (I failed to make notes) where these beauties are:

Spot insisted we take a picture of Gary's Dog House. Ever since the spot remover incident, I listen to him. I think he wants me to build him one just like it. Fat chance.
